Why I nominate Christopher Mayer for the toolbox...

I am the Slinger High School Metals instructor and also run the Bots IQ program. I have only known Chris for about three months but I can ensure you that he is a model student and perfect candidate for the toolbox. Chris is a senior and has been involved with the Bots IQ program here at slinger for 2 years. During this time he has been very involved with the design and fabrication of the Bot Sic'em which is here today. Chris has spent countless hours at school and even at home working on the robot. He has currently participated in two competitions. His first competition he learned the hard way that things don't always go as planed after being eliminated due to an electrical failure. His second competition he did much better earning 3rd place.

Chris not only has learned a lot for himself throughout his time spent with our bots club but he has also taught others what it takes to be a club member. Chris works well with everyone in the club and the other students look up to him as a leader. Chris is also an active member in FFA (4 years) and Skills USA (2 years). Chris also represents Slinger High School by working part time at a local machine shop. Chris was chosen for the job through the Slinger technology education department instructors. We were asked for a hardworking, responsible and trainable student and Chris fit the mold. We have since only had positive feedback from his company.

Chris is an excellent student and member of our club. As a senior he will be missed next year but I can guarantee you that he will be doing his part and more to better his community as he pursues his passion and continues his work right here in the community with Drill Master Tooling.

It has been an honor to nominate Chris Mayer for this award. When I asked his peers why he should be nominated they told me that he will need, and would use, a toolbox more then the rest of us. Apparently his bedroom at home is full of tools with no where to put them. They must know this about Chris from late nights working on the Bot to prepare for competition.

Sincerely,
